

Lesson 11 Questions

What is the html style attribute used for?

What is the html `<style>` tag used for?

What is the advantage of linking html files to an external css file instead of having the CSS embedded in the html file?

Write the CSS that is needed to change the background color of the page to yellow.

What line of code could be added to an html file to link it to a stylesheet named `mystyles.css`?

In html, the equal sign is used to assign a value to an attribute (`bgcolor=pink`). What is used instead in CSS when assigning a value to a property?

In CSS, what are curly braces used for?

In CSS, what should each line of code (property being set to a value) end with?